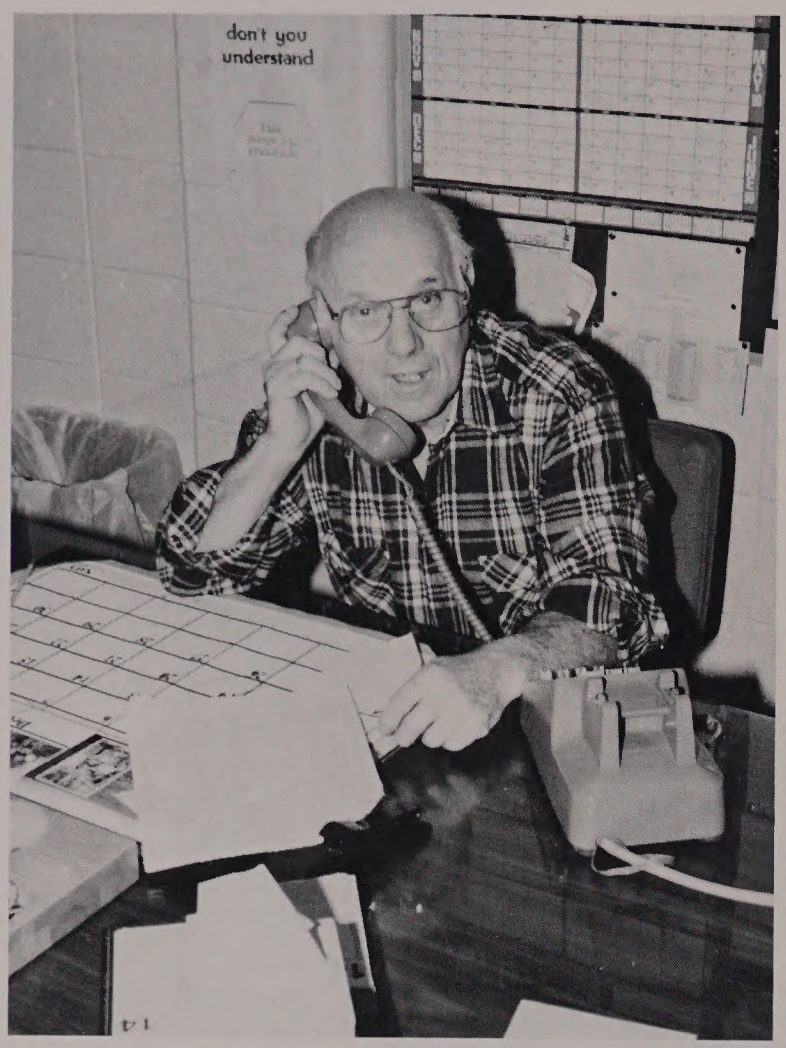
Dedication



Mr. George Nicolan

The Class of 1990 happily dedicates its yearbook to Mr. George Nicolan.

George Nicolan's name was the most often heard announcement during our four years at Case High.

Without you, Mr. Nicolan, most of us would not have been able to get into our lockers to get our books to do our schoolwork or our gym clothes to get to class on time.

Without you, some of us would not have been able even to get a pass to get into class at all.

You were always there for us. And we are grateful.

You always listened; you provided a shoulder to lean on; you were a friend we could count on.

You spoke to us; you encouraged us. You persuaded us that what we thought were enormous problems would fade with time. You also told us what our responsibilities were. You were then, and still are, a sweet-talking man and we appreciated your compliments and advice.

In return for your kindness, tonight we repay you for giving us a happier image of ourselves. We want you to know that we like you very much and want you to remember this dedication as a happy moment you deserve.

If we could vote for you as a Senior Superlative, we would vote you Class Flirt. But because we love and respect you and want to remember you as a Superlative Friend we dedicate our 1990 yearbook to you- Mr. George Nicolan.

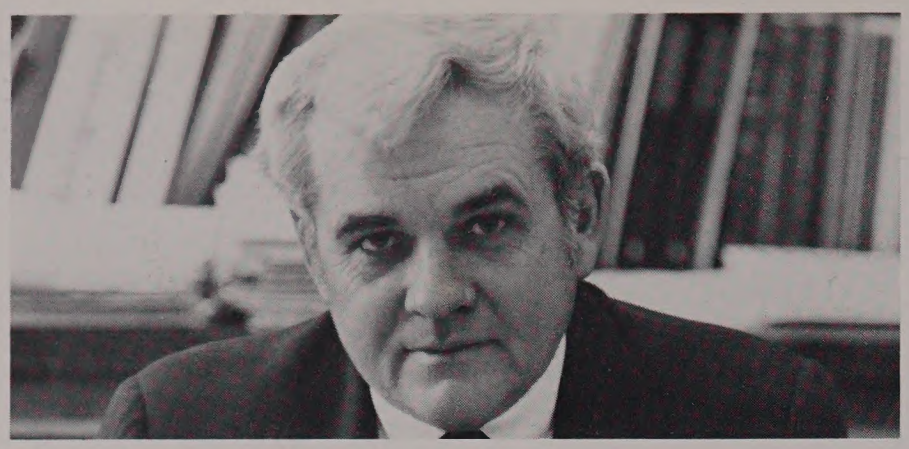
THE CHIEF 1990



John E. McCarthy Superintendent of Schools

To the Class of 1990:

It is with the utmost pride and pleasure that I offer my congratulations to the Class of 1990 as you graduate from Case High School. You represent the sixtieth graduating class from Swansea's high school, and you should be very proud of the fact that you are joining a long list of illustrious alumni.

It seems like such a short time ago that this class was in the eighth grade when Swansea attracted such attention throughout the Nation because one of your classmates was unfortunately the victim of AIDS. The administration made a decision that Mark Hoyle should attend school and presented its case to the community. As the media focused on Swansea, the school children observed and tested for their reaction and behavior were you and your classmates. You performed your task very well and brought a great deal of credit to yourselves and the community. Swansea won recognition as a town of compassion and understanding. I am quite certain that the characteristics you displayed at that time will enable you to successfully face whatever crises life may present you with in the future.

I am very proud to be your superintendent, and extend my best wishes for health and happiness in the future.

Sincerely yours,

John E. McCarthy

Harold G. Devine Jr.
Assistant Superintendent

The 1990 graduating class of Joseph Case High School has distinguished itself in a way that can only be described as special and wonderful. Your class is the one that opened its mind and heart to a fellow student stricken with AIDS.

Mark Hoyle would have been graduating with the Class of 1990. His story is one that we all know. At a time when students suffering from AIDS were being denied admission to schools all across the country, you came to the defense of your classmate. Your willingness to stand behind Mark's desire to "just be one of the kids" has set a high standard for students and adults alike. Your efforts made the last year of Mark's life special. He was where he belonged with people who cared. The quality of his life was as good as it could be because of you.

Your reaction to this situation has distinguished your class. Your reaction makes me proud to have been your Principal and will stand as a model of compassion and understanding for all time. You were given a chance to be great and, unlike so many others who fail this challenge, you succeeded.

This message concludes with my best wishes to each and every one for an extra measure of success and happiness in the future. I will never forget you.

Mr. David Jardin
Principal

The usual message at this time of the year is for our Seniors to take what they have learned during the last twelve years and apply it in a rational and sane manner in order to best serve society. This standard message is a worthwhile one but it omits one central trait that is essential in the application of any knowledge and decision making process. That trait lies in the character of the individual. Character is something that each of us must build for himself through the examples of others and out of the trials and errors of daily life. It is in essence the final decision to reject whatever is demeaning to oneself or others and with confidence and honesty to choose what is right. Herein lies the true application of knowledge and education.

I hope that in some small way we have provided you with a strong educational base and have provided you with the experiences necessary for character development. As you leave Joseph Case High School it is the hope of the faculty, staff and administration that your future will be bright and filled with reward.

Assistant Principal

Congratulations on the successful completion of your high school experience. It is now time to explore and establish new goals for the future. Always remember that hard work, dedication and perseverance, when combined, lead to success.

May you have the best of luck and good fortune pursuing life's new adventures.

Mark Hoyle

Class Of 1990

Joseph Case High Swansea Massachusetts

The 1980's were filled with many turbulent events that would change the course of history. For the most part these events took place in far away places and had little effect on the small town resident. One of these happenings, however, took place in our town and changed it drastically. Newspapers were plastered with stories of a young boy who had contracted AIDS. Where this event deviated from the typical AIDS stories of the time was that the papers they appeared in were local newspapers.

In May of 1985 Mark Hoyle had contracted the disease through blood transfusions he received to treat Hemophilia. We had developed a strong friendship with Mark, as he was in our baseball league, and we attended the same church and school. He was a friendly boy who was popular among his classmates, which explains the extraordinary circumstances that followed.

At that time in other parts of the country other children with AIDS were being forced out of schools and sometimes even out of the communities in which they lived. The response in Swansea was completely different. Mark was allowed to remain in school and live as normal a life as possible under the trying circumstance. This was the first time anywhere in the country that an AIDS-stricken youth had been allowed to do so.

Our small town had bound together to make Mark's life as pleasant as possible. Fundraisers were organized in his name to help pay the tremendous medical bills of his treatment. More importantly the town made him feel comfortable in knowing that he was accepted for his person not rejected for his disease. At his untimely death the town showed more concern and caring than for any other death in our lifetime.

One of the most emotional scenes of the experience that exemplified the town's caring for Mark was when the reporters swarmed our junior high school upon the breaking of the story. Mark was protected from the reporters by the students and teachers in our school. Many of us were asked if Mark should remain in our school; the answer to which was a unanimous "yes." This set the tone for the following years where Mark's story was one of acceptance, not rejection.

We learned many important lessons from this experience. Mark taught us to be open about our problems, not to conceal them in pain. Sometimes, he would force us to look on the bright side of his bad situation. Knowing that his life would be greatly shortened Mark tried to fill all his time instead of just quitting. We learned from Mark to inquire and to fact-find before making judgments based on emotion or prejudice. Importantly, he made it easy for us to show genuine compassion without constantly dwelling on his illness. He knew we all cared about him yet he would insist that he felt no different than when he was healthy. He wanted to be accepted, not differentiated. Most important to us was the inspiration and motivation that we gained as we watched Mark desperately struggle and try to defeat a disease that he knew he wouldn't survive. We hope that we can learn and cope with problems with the same power and intensity that Mark displayed as he dealt with the overwhelming problems of his short life.

"A winner never quits, a quitter never wins. It is never too late to rally."

Santos registers 100th win

By Tom Flanigan
Special to The Herald News

NEW BEDFORD — Case fans were out in force to watch Adam Silva gobble up more real estate in Saturday's South Coast Conference gridiron clash with New Bedford Voke here on the Bears' home field.

Silva worshippers did not make their pilgrimmage in vain, as the 5-foot-11, 184-pound Cardinal thoroughbred turned in another spectacular performance, leading his team to a 41-0 advantage before being tethered on the sidelines for the second half out of courtesy to the beleaguered hosts. Undefeated Case (5-0) ultimately triumphed, 41-6, in an utter blowout.

In spite of Silva's heroics, this day — and this Case victory — belonged to coach Joe Santos. It marked a milestone in the veteran Cardinal coach's career — his 100th win.

"I kept it quiet because I didn't after the game.

"Now that it's come to be, I must admit it feels good. One of my goals was to reach the 20-year mark," continued the Cardinal mentor, now in his 20th year at the Case helm. "And as I approached that goal, and reviewed my records over the years, 100 wins seemed like another worthwhile mark to shoot for.

"I've had a lot of help from my players an assistant coaches. And let's not forget the losses. I've suffered through more than 80 of them, and four ties," he admitted honestly.

When asked to summarize his coaching philosophy and what he has learned over the years, Santos responded, "I like to run an innovative, wide-open offense to make it more fun for the players, and avoid the constant pounding that can lead to injuries. Every week in practice, we add new plays to our offensive repetoire. It keeps the interest up, and leaves us with from his younger, perhaps tempestuous days, Santos served, "I've calmed down a and learned to take wins losses in stride. I no longer on the field. I let my assis coaches do the yelling," he wryly, adding, "I've learned t joy myself more."

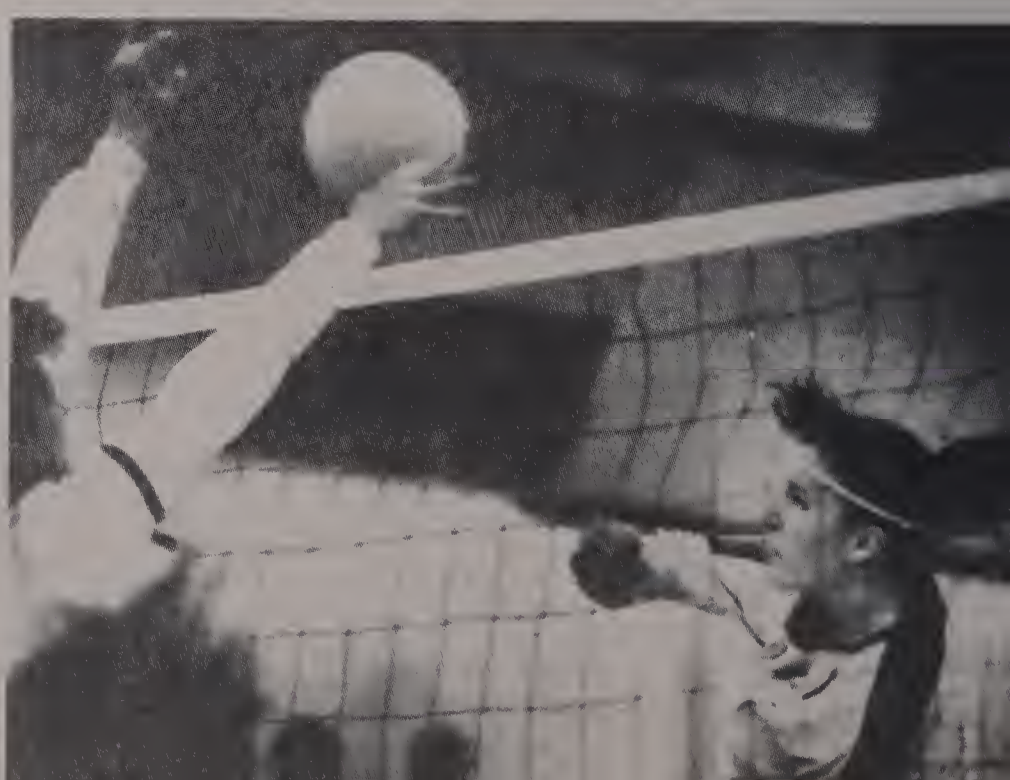
Case spikers claim 4th straight state title

Cards dethrone Quincy, defending 'One' champ



WALTHAM — Contrary to pular belief, volleyball is not a letter word. At least not in the y State. In Massachusetts, leyball is a four-letter word illed C-A-S-E.

The Cardinals officially labeled emselves a dynasty last night at ltham High School by defeating incy, 16-14, 15-17, 15-7, 4-15, d 15-12 for the state Division e championship.

t was the fourth straight state ionship for the Cardinals. Division Two champs in '86, , and '88. This year, they were nped up to Division One and, only claimed that championship, but won all 25 of their tches to extend their overall ning streak to 69.

And they did so last night by iting a previously undefeated ncy team. The Presidents, like Cardinals, boast one of the st volleyball programs in the te.

They were the defending season were 21-0 before colliding with the Cardinals. Quincy had also won Division One state titles in '83 and '84.

And the Presidents appeared headed for their second straight Division One title when they scored five straight points to open an 11-8 lead in the fifth set.

The Cardinal defense held them to one point after that and the Cardinals, despite looking weary after two-plus hours on the court, cranked up their offense one final time.

They scored three straight points on Aimee Lecomte's serve, tying the game at 11. Quincy took its final lead on a Melanie Sullivan block, before Case's Kathy Kelly blasted a spike to return the serve to Case.

With Donna Mello serving, the Cardinals ran off the final four points of the season. Mello unloaded successive aces putting Case ahead, 13-12. Following a Quincy timeout, Kelly finished off kills off sets by Vickie Philibert.

In the fourth game Quincy dominated. Case Randi Gaura served nine straight points putting Quincy ahead 9 to 1 and the Presidents cruised from there.

The all-conquering Swansea contingent won the first set by overcoming somewhat of a letdown. They led 14-11 before Quincy came roaring back to even matters at 14-all, but Lecomte's two kills settled the issue.

Coach Chris Stanton's champions were in the driver's seat in the second set with a comfortable 14-6 cushion, but couldn't hold on as the Presidents, sparked by Melanie Sullivan's powerful performance at the net, sparked an incredible comeback to give Quincy the game.

But Case didn't fold. Not by a long shot as the Cardinals, triggered by the sensational play of Lecomte and Kelly, totally dominated the Presidents in the third game, 15-7. A tenacious Case
